BIG CARNIVAL ATTRACTION HERE NEXT WEEK FOR BENEFIT OF HOME DEFENSE POLICE

Next week will be a big week in the amusement line when one of the leading carnival companies of the country will be here under the auspices of the Home Defense Police.

The leading attraction at every first class exposition, carnival or street fair throughout the country has been the Ferari Mighty Midway, which has been contracted for by the committee in charge of the Home Defense Police Carnival to be held at Page park all next week, commencing Monday evening. Everywhere it has been the consensus of opinion that for high class general excellence and marked superiority, they have far excelled anything of the kind ever seen in America. They are educational and refined, entertaining and clean, amusing and shameless, elevating and edifying, honorably conducted and honestly advertised.

The fronts of the shows are true works of art, resplendent with rich carving, gilding, painting and decorations, studded with hundreds of various colored lights, which flash and glitter like a myriad of jewels, while crowning all are the great white dazzling arcs, which shed light as bright as day over the entire midway.

Each show is the very best of its kind in existence and there is an air of splendor about them that is so sadly lacking with other aggregations. There is nothing of the cheap and tawdy flashing and trashified elegance, where the very best of people want to go and where the old and young, the rich and poor alike seek and find pure innocent recreation and amusement.

The big feature attraction with the Col. Francis Ferraro Show is the Trained Wild Animal arena without a doubt the greatest bunch of wild animals on the road, and trained by such well known animal trainers as Princess Alice, the world's most daring young lady animal trainer, and Tony Herberdenie, the man who wrestles with the bloodthirsty tiger and the dare devil of them all, Capt. Purchase, the man who fights Black Prince, the man eating lion. The show will pull in Sunday over the P. R. R. and will be unloaded at Webster.

When Your Pail is Full

Lend to your Government.

Lend more than you thought you could.

When you think that you have done all you can, there is always a chance to do a little more.

You may fill a bucket of potatoes to the top until you cannot get in another potato.

But the bucket is not yet filled for you will find that you can still add a quart or so of beans.

Then there will be room for a pint or two of peas; and after that a pound or more of sugar.

And when the pail is full to the brim there is still room for a couple quarts of water.

LOOKS LIKE BIG REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE IN STATE AT THE COMING NOVEMBER ELECTION

That the Democratic party in the state of Pennsylvania will be unmercifully defeated at the November election is assured by the fact that all of the dissatisfied Republicans have climbed back into the party and are for Senator William C. Sproul for Governor.

Gifford Pinchot, one of the leaders of the old Progressive party in Pennsylvania, in a statement issued last night declares for the election of Senator W. C. Sproul for governor. Mr. Pinchot strongly indorses Senator Sproul's stand on the liquor question and contrasts the position of the Republican gubernatorial nominee and that of his Democratic rival, Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, who is against the proposed prohibition amendment.

Bonniwell is trying to save himself by pre-empting a "Fair Play" party for the purpose of ensnairing wet Republicans, but this is no time for the party wreckers and those who would try to oppose the efforts of our high law making bodies in winning the war. The American people will be true to the government this year and they will repudiate pre-empted parties. Bonniwell has been repudiated by his own party. He has been summoned to meet the big Democrats to answer to charges, but he refuses.

Yesterday Bonniwell sent a letter to each member of the state committee, in which he says the request of the committee for him to appear before it in Harrisburg next Saturday and answer certain statements made by National Committeeman A. Mitchell Palmer "savors of impertinence."

"I am the nominee of 80,000 Democrats in a popular primary," he said. "I am accountable only to the people who voted for me, and certainly not to a set of men who have eagerly sought to betray me ever since the disgusted democracy dismantled their machine."

According to friends of Judge Bonniwell the letter leaves no doubt that he will not appear before the committee.

Harrisburg, Sept. 12—Warren Van Dyke, secretary of the Democratic state committee, came back from Washington tonight with plans for the meeting of that body on Saturday in his pocket. He will be joined here tomorrow by the new state chairman, Lawrence H. Rupp, Allentown. Mr. Vandyke was in consultation with leaders of the official factor of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, most of whom expect to be here. He declined to say what action would be taken, in view of the Bonniwell repudiation of the Palmer repudiation, but the manner in which Palmer-McCormick men are being rustled up to attend the meeting indicates that the reorganizers do not intend to be caught. Adoption of a platform is now said to be certain, but Bonniwell's position will be determined first.

CHANGES AROUND POLICE STATION

There have been some changes made in the local police force, Patrolman Andy Jenkins having resigned from the force and being chosen street commissioner.

Patrolman Boyer has resigned and accepted a position as fire boss with the Monessen Coal & Coke Co.

A man named McNiel is a new member on the force. The office of desk sargeant has been discontinued and any officer who happens to be working near the station acts in that capacity. Carlson, who has for a time been doing plain clothes duty, is back in uniform, thus filling the force up to about its usual quota.

The work of the police department seems to be moving along smoothly and street work under the practical supervision of Commissioner Jenkins is being prosecuted in a very satisfactory manner.

MAN BURIED AT EXPENSE OF COUNTY

The remains of Pete Zuros of Fayette City, who was drowned in the Monongahela river Wednesday afternoon, were buried yesterday afternoon in the Belle Vernon cemetery.

The unfortunate man worked on the new state road with a gang back of Fayette City, and the last seen of him was last Sunday. It is not known how he got into the river unless it was by some accident.

The body was found floating near the river shore at Belle Vernon about 8 o'clock Wednesday, fully dressed, with no marks of violence.

Identification was made by friends and papers found in the clothing.

The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Hancock & Melynizer, Belle Vernon, and prepared for burial which was at the expense of Fayette county as not sufficent money was found to pay the funeral expenses, and he had no friends in this country.

DONT LET NOVELTY WEAR OFF

The Pittsburgh Post says:

"Leaders in Red Cross work are issuing a call for more recruits. With the steady increase in the numbers of Americans engaged in the conflict the quantities of Red Cross supplies demanded at the front are of course increasing in proportion, and it is imperative that the splendid army of self-sacrificing workers at home be recruited up to a strength proportionate to the fighting arm of the service. The work of organization is being spread with unremitting zeal and energy all the time and thousands of volunteers are being added to the ranks from day to day all over the land, but there is an element of loss that is militating against the vigorous prosecution of the work, and that is difficult to overcome. This is the tendency to enter upon it with extreme ardor in the first flush of novetly, then tire of it when the routine of cutting, fitting, basting, stitching, rolling bandages, etc. has rendered it a monotonous grind. It is at this point that many a good housewife and patriotic worker finds that the duties of her household are being neglected and begins to see valid excuses to skip a sewing day at her Red Cross chapter. But right here is the point where the rub comes for the lad "over there" who is relying on her work to back him up. He cannot skip a day. Whether in hospital, on the march, in camp or in battle, he is committed to his task day in and day out and his need of the home support goes on without intermission. It is at this point, too, that the true heroism of the war worker begins; the point is not only an inconvenience, but a trial and a hardship requiring no small sacrifice. Thousands of American women are persisting in the work to and far beyond this point, and the glory of their service is the greater for it. All honor to them and to all who aid in the great task, even in little, but like the brave boys in the trenches, let us make it an enlistment for the period of the war, and once we have entered the service, let us stand by the boys to the finish."

THE KAISER'S MEDALS

A sweet little girl asked it. Just such a child as the Boche in Belgium bayonetted to doors, crippled and mutilated and scrunched under monstrous foot or tore from mother arms to be stuck through and carried aloft. The little one pointed to a picture in the outspread paper. "How did the kaiser get all those pretty medals?" We thought of the aluminum piece he gives to every Hun soldier; it bears these words: "Strike them dead. The Day of Judment will not ask you for reasons." We recalled some of the savageries for which he had awarded the Iron Cross to his butchers and beasts of rapine and atrocity.

And we wondered and answered that we could not answer but decided that the Hohenzollern would answer some day for every one he wore, and every heart he tore and every drop of gore in which his filthy fists had steeped!!

You can hasten for him that Day of Judgment which will ask him for reasons—by the simple expedient of investment, by "going over the top" with the next Liberty Loan pledge that will pinch your purse but pinch him worse.

If you need nerve to do it, what the Yanks 'over there" call guts—think of the Belgians, the girls, the babes, the women, and "Fade in" to that picture our girls, our babes, our women!"

HOLD YOUR LIBERTY BONDS

To successfully finance the war it is necessary that owners of Liberty Bonds hold their bonds, if possible. Where for any good reason it is necessary for them to turn their bonds into cash, they should seek the advice of their bankers.

Liberty Loan Bonds are very desirable investments, and crafty individuals are using various means to secure them from owners not familiar with stock values and like matters. One method is to offer to exchange them for Liberty Bonds, stocks or bonds of doubtful organizations represented as returning a much higher income than the bonds.

There are various other methods used and likely to be used, some of the gold-brick variety and others less crude and probably within the limits of the law. All offers of Liberty Bonds except for money and at market value should be scrutinized carefully. The bonds are the safest of investments and have non-taxable and other valuable features.

To hold your Liberty Loan Bonds, if possible, is patriotic. To consult your banker before selling them is wise.

THINK IT OVER

Strike! Has the grocer struck? Has the miller, the butcher, the newspaper—all of whom suffer hardships from the war? Has big business struck against the proposal to tax its profits even up to 80 per cent? Have big incomes struck? Who are the strikers? Who are the fighters? Think it over.—Leslie's Weekly.

LINE OF NORTHERN BOUNDARY

Curious History of United States Territory That "Overlaps" into the Dominion of Canada.

How did the United States come to get that small corner of land which juts out from the extreme northern boundary of Minnesota? History of that little "nose" which sticks out into Canada from Minnesota and which constitutes the northernmost point of the United States is very interesting. Under the treaty of 1783 boundary between the United States and British possessions was fixed. A certain point on the Lake of the Woods was mutually agreed to as one starting point, this being considered the headwaters of the St. Lawrence river and Great Lakes system. At that time it was not known whether this point was north or south of the forty-ninth parallel, but it was known to be close to it. The understanding was that from that point the boundary should go north or south to the forty-ninth parallel, as the case might be. Later and more accurate surveys showed that point was about 25 miles north of the forty-ninth parallel, and so at this place the boundary makes a jog above that line. Uncle Sam thus has a little piece of territory of about 100 square miles in extent north of the general boundary. And the joke of it is that any one has to go by water in order to reach this little piece of territory unless he wants to go through Canada.—The Pathfinder.

C. Jackson, of 108 Burnette Street, Pittsburgh, Now Tells of His Experience With Ten-Herbs

HAD STOMACH TROUBLE

One of the most interesting statements recently made regarding Ten-Herbs in Pittsburgh is that of Mr. C. Jackson, of No. 108 Burnette street, a well-known business man, who has been a resident of that city for many years. He stated:

"I had been troubled with my stomach for the past few years; was bloated with gas, and had indigestion so bad that I could not keep the lightest kind of food in my stomach; I was very nervous and could not sleep at night; my liver was sluggish and my kidneys were also affected. I had taken many different medicines without any benefit whatever and it was only when I started to take your Ten-Herbs that I got relief. I can now honestly say that I have no more trouble with indigestion, sleep well at night, and have no trouble with my liver or kidneys. I feel better in every way."

Ten-Herbs is a scientific blending of the essence of certain roots, herbs, berries and fibres which have been known to medical science from time immemorial for their curative and healing properties in cases of stomach, liver and kidney diseases. Only the proportions of each and the modern method of blending are secret.

Ten-Herbs is sold in Monessen at the Central Pharmacy. 1t

AIRSHIPS USED IN BALKANS

Writer Vividly Describes Two Scenes He Witnessed During the Recent Conflict There.

"As I stood watching one day I saw two scenes in this grim drama which made my pulses beat with great excitement," says a writer in "The Balkan War," a book by Philip Gibbs and Bernard Grant. "A great bird flew across the sky toward the city and as it flew it sang a droning song like the buzzing of an enormous bee. It was a monoplane, flown by a Bulgarian aviator, who had volunteered to reconnoiter the Turkish defenses. It disappeared swiftly into the smoke wrack, and for some time I listened intently to a furious fusillade which seemed to meet this winged spy. After half an hour the aeroplane came back, flying swiftly away from the shot and shell which pursued it from the low lying hills. Its wings were pierced, so that one could see the sky through them, but it flew steadily from the chase of death, and I heard its rhythmic heart beat overhead. Its escape was certain now. It had mocked at the pursuit of the shells, the loud beat of its engine above me was a song of triumph. I watched it disappear again—to safety. So it seemed, but death has many ways of capture, and when I came back to Mustafa Pasha that day I heard that the unfortunate aviator, after his escape from the guns, had fallen from a great height within sight of home, and that the hero's body lay smashed to pieces in the wreckage of his machine.

"Then on another day I saw another drama in the air. While my eyes watched the smoke clouds from the siege guns something twinkled and glittered to the left of the four tall minarets of the great mosque of Adrianople. It was the smooth silk of an airship which caught the rays of the sun; this cigar-shaped craft rose slowly and steadily to a fair height, though I think it was tethered at one end. It rose above peaceful ground into a great tranquillity, which lasted about ten minutes. Then suddenly there was a terrific clap of thunder and a shell burst to the left of the airship. I gave a great cry. It seemed to me that the frail craft had burst and disappeared into nothingness.

"But a few seconds later, when the smoke was wafted away, I saw the airship still poised steadily above the earth, untouched by that death machine. A second shell was flung skyward, far to the right, and for an hour I watched shells rise continually round that airship, trying to tear it down from its high observation, but never striking it. I do not know the names of the men who piloted that ship, but whoever they were, they may boast of a courage which kept them at their post in the sky amid that storm of shells."

DIZZY--WRECKED HIS AUTOMOBILE

"Two years ago my stomach trouble got so bad that I was almost constantly filled with gas. This made me very dizzy at times. Last Fall I was almost overcome by one of these dizzy spells while driving my car, and ran it into a telephone pole, badly wrecking the car. A friend recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy for my trouble. Since taking the first dose I have steadily improved, and feel better now than ever in my life." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.—Craig's drug store and druggists everywhere. adv.

Ancient Advocates of Suffrage.

In casting about for original ideas and suggestions for the many floats which formed the principal feature of their parade on the last day of May, the Just Government league members discovered that even in Biblical times there were advocates of the suffrage movement. As a result, three Bible celebrities were represented in the pageant. They were Miriam, the sister of Moses, and Deborah and Hulda, the Israelite judges. These three were gorgeously arrayed in garments befitting their time and occupied one of the most elaborate floats in the pageant.

Madam L. Von F. Mountford, a resident of Jerusalem, lecturer on Bible lands and an authority on the correct dress for the ancient days, gave the benefit of her knowledge for the purpose of making the Biblical float and figures true to legendary times. Miriam, the sister of Moses, was presented as the woman who led the woman's parade across the Red sea. The banner of Deborah showed her as leader of the armies of Israel and Hulda was suggested as a teacher and leader.—Baltimore American.

Triumph of a "Masher."

A young man played a mean trick on four modest young women in the theater of a small town in York state recently, records Dix Dudley in the Morning Telegraph. The girls knew the youth, but had snubbed him at the door of the playhouse by refusing to speak to him. He decided to "get even."

The girls occupied the first four seats in the sixth row and the young man had the fifth seat. They paid no attention to him whatever. During the early part of the program a monologist came out on the stage and began to talk about love. It was then that the snubbed young man got his chance to square accounts with the girls. Suddenly the monologist asked:

"Will all the girls who are in love please stand up?"

Turning to the girl next to him the young man said: "Please let me out."

Naturally, the whole four had to rise to let him go by. When they were once on their feet the young man settled back in his seat and grinned. The rest of the audience roared in glee.

SELFISH KNITTERS

Sisters, we're ashamed of you,
Knitting rose and mauve and blue;
It were better you should sit
Idle-handed than to knit
Selfish things of flaunting hue

Sisters, do you never see
Far away in Picardy,
Where our boys in khaki go—
George and Billy, Jack and Joe!—
Fighting for humanity?

Here at home our fields of grain
Wave untrammeled, free from stain,
Unafraid, our cattle graze,
Through the golden Summer days,
Such a land was fair Lorraine!

In the trenches lips grow blue,
When the summer days are through;
There are gray and brown to knit—
Every one must do her bit!—
Sisters, we're ashamed of you!

OLD FORT BUILT BY RUSSIANS

Archeologist's Explanation of Ruins of Building on the Northern Coast of California.

Ruins of buildings on the old Weske ranch, near Windsor and about thirteen miles north of Santa Rosa, Cal., hitherto unexplained, now are thought to be the work of people of mechanical skill, probably Russians, who erected the buildings 100 years or more ago

That the edifices were not the work of the Spaniards is taken for granted as the history of this country under Spanish rule is sufficiently complete to give assurance that some record of the construction of the buildings would have been left

The construction is too exact to have been the work of the Indian races and local investigators have decided that the ruins are those of a large fort or fortified settlement built by Russians early in the last century.

The ruins have the appearance of being parts of a once massive fortification In one place there stands a part of the wall, twenty feet in height, thirty feet long, thirty feet thick at the ground and tapering to a width of ten feet. It is built of basalt slabs about twenty feet in length and irregular prismatic shape

Russians under Admiral Kuskoff Admiral Kotzebue and Count Razan off made a determined effort to establish themselves along the northern coast more than 100 years ago

"Miracle" Quickly Explained.

A good natured curate, who firmly believed that God was continually working miracles to enable him to help the needy, and who seldom had a coin in his pocket, was accosted one day by a beggar woman. He pleaded utter lack of money, but on the mendicant beseeching him to search his pockets he hopefully put his hand in one, and to his amazement and joy found a five-shilling piece there. "Another of God's miracles!" he exclaimed; and then, addressing the woman: "This coin belongs to you of right. Take it and go in peace" Having told the story a few hours later to his worldly minded parish priest, and suggested that they should both go down on their knees and render thanks to God, a strange, unpleasant light suddenly broke on the mind of the shrewd pastor, who exclaimed: "Good heavens! Are those my breeches that you've on you?"

Value of Labor.

Labor is a commodity to be bought and sold notwithstanding the maudlin criticism of some theorists, writes C W. Post in Leslie's Labor is not the man himself, whom I consider a part of the divine, but labor is his output just the same as wheat is the output of the farmer, and it is a subject for purchase and sale, and upon its quality depends its demand and its value. There are two kinds of labor, the one manual and the other mental. When the skilled workman possesses a trained mind which directs his hands, he rises in value, and when he reaches a plane where his mind is so well trained that he in turn becomes a creator and must needs devise and direct, he then requires other hands to carry out his ideas. Then he again rises in the plane of value to humanity, and his compensation must keep pace.

Which He Rose to Remark.

They were at the grocery, all with recollections of many a shocking case of tremendous weather to recount, and none was left out. Then one ancient rose and said:

"In seventeen hundred an'—"

But they cut in on him there, and told him they wouldn't do it if they was him, 'cause see how all-swizzlin' old it'd make him, they said. But the ancient pushed his specs up on his forehead and went right on:

"What I was goin' fer to say was," said he, "that in 1,799 cases outen 1,800 where folks remembered sutch spells o' hair-raising weather there ain't a ding word of 'em so!"—Browning's Magazine.

1,250-Foot Ships in 1930.

At the first international congress of maritime navigation in Philadelphia it was predicted that in 1950 the twenty largest boats on the Atlantic will have an average length of 1,100 feet, with a beam of more than 100 feet, and a draught of nearly forty feet.

A forecast, however, made several years ago for 1925 materialized last year, and it may well be that this forecast for 1950 will find itself an actuality fifteen or twenty years sooner than the time prophesied.

Work being done to better docking facilities all over the world gives a slight indication of what may be expected The plans for the new locks of Tilbury dock provide for ships of a length of 1,250 feet, a width of 130 feet and a draught of 39 feet. The Suez canal is to be deepened to 39 feet by 1915.

Parents Git From Son in France

Victor Matheus of Seneca street, has received the following letter from his son, Jules Matheus, now in France

France, July 23, 1918

Dear Mother and Father:—

I am writing you a few lines to let you know that I received your letter and it found me in good health Well, I went over the top and I will tell you that it surely was some battle and you ought to have seen the Germans run They are the best runners in the country when American boys start after them. I am now back from the front and am still in good health, so don't worry about me because nothing worries me. Well I will close for this time, don't worry because I am alright.

Good Addition To Marines

Boston, Mass., Sept. 13—Though Fritz is on the jump, his fate now is all the more certain. Peter Charon of New Haven, official frog catcher from the laboratories at Yale University, has enlisted in the Marine corps.

"There isn't much doing in the frog line now," says Charon "Before the war you used to hear them churning out their cries of 'Jug of rum; Jug of rum!' but now you can't find any of the creatures down our way. Besides there's no market since the laboratory men have all gone to war."

Charon is six feet and one inch in height. The Marines consider him a good addition to their fighting corps

Greensburg a Terminal Point

Greensburg is one of the first terminal points for the "Flying Wedge" or organizers that will tour the state for the Eastern Department of the Young Women's Christian Association under the direction of the War Work Council.

Miss Frances Kirk of Philadelphia, physical instructor at the Germantown Y. W. C. A. arrived in Greensburg Monday and has been holding conferences daily with Mrs. John E. Bruno, who has been asked to act as chairman of District Number Three in Pennsylvania by the War Work Council of the National Board. Miss Kirk is a graduate of Temple College, and attended Columbia University.

The counties included are Indiana, Fayette and the central part of Westmoreland. Miss Kirk will go also to Johnstown. The work includes Somerset, Cambria, Blair, Bedford, Fulton and Huntingdon.

The plan of organization will immediately enlist hundreds of women in the active war work program which the Y. W. C. A. has planned for the section. There will be county chairmen appointed; a chairman will be named for each town and city, and a chairman at large will be delegated to traverse the farming districts.

Wherever the organizers go, they will ask two questions, "Have you seen the Blue Triangle," and "Do you know what it stands for?"

The Y. W. C. A. has chosen the azure emblem as the insigma of its war work.

The Y. W. C. A. is doing for the women of this country and of France what the Y. M. C. A. is doing for the men. It is caring for the women of the industrial armies of both countries at the request of the two governments.

At the munition centers in France "foyers" or club houses have been established accommodating from one to five thousand women. There is a cafeteria, a recreation hall where the women play games, have concerts and gymnastic classes during the two hour rest period at noon. There are rooms fitted up as rest rooms and writing and sewing rooms. At night they are filled with French girls learning English, book keeping or stenography that they may work in the offices of the American Expeditionary Forces.

In this country the Y W C A has established industrial War Service clubs in the twenty-two munition cantonments recently built by the government. The request for these came from the government
